

WHEN A WOMAN TELLS

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING.

When I dared look around and once more had my bearings I discovered ahead of me the lights of the city.

As we traveled they grew more distinct. I had a feeling of safety. I was in the back seat of a large car and someone was there with me. I did not try to discover who it was, though there was something vaguely familiar about the figure.

I lay still. I didn't want to talk and evidently the person with me thought I was unconscious or asleep. I felt a firm hand on my shoulder and another was steadying the leather pillow against which I leaned.

At length I felt pavement under the car. We were in the city. I started to talk. I wanted to tell them where to take me, but my voice was gone. The car was rumbling along and I contented myself with the thought that they knew where to go. The feeling of vagueness was returning again and I felt that nothing mattered very much.

I felt the car turning a corner. It was going the right way. I wondered why I knew this. The hand on my shoulder strained a little more tightly. It almost hurt, yet I did not care.

Finally the car turned into a driveway. We were home! The hand on my shoulder released its grip for just a second and then I was lifted and carried into the house, up the stairs and to my own room. Did the arms that held me draw more tightly for just a second before they released me to my wicker lounge? Was the face I saw something like Tom's? Whoever it was, stopped a moment to talk to someone else—it sounded like Tom's voice, I thought. But I was tired. My head hurt. I wanted only to rest.

Shortly someone was fussing with my shoes, my clothing, my hands and face and then mechanically I moved over the floor to the softness of my bed. How I loved it! It seemed suddenly to have taken on a new glory and to be a very superior sort of place.

I was disturbed once more when a physician came and thumbed my head and examined my scalp.

"No injury," I heard him say and then—

With the first coming of day I awakened. All of the hideousness of the evening before rushed at me. I was held, incapable of moving, in the grip of a feeling, half fear and half jealousy.

Presently Mrs. Ames appeared in the doorway between our rooms.

"How do you feel?" she asked as she neared my bed.

I tried to speak out but my throat seemed paralyzed.

She smiled.

"I think in spite of some of the bad things which have happened to you, you must be under the care of a good angel," she said. "Do you know how you reached home last night—who brought you?"

With a weary movement I indicated that I didn't.

"It was Tom," Lila was still smiling.

LOCAL BATTALION WILL BEGIN WORK ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Capt. Temple Places Order for Equipment; Instructor Arrives Friday.

With the arrival here Friday morning of a regular army sergeant instructor, a machine gun of the latest model and pamphlets of instruction, South Bend's machine gun battalion through the first composite company, will begin work Friday evening at 7:30 at the Chamber of Commerce. A call to all men enlisted in the battalion is being sent out by Capt. William L. Temple, commanding.

Capt. Temple returned today from Indianapolis, where yesterday he placed requisitions for uniforms and equipment complete for the first company, and training paraphernalia to accommodate the two companies still to be organized. Maj. Albert T. Rich, regular army instructor, with headquarters in Indianapolis, urged Capt. Temple to speed up the organization of the complete battalion here.

Primary instruction. The primary instruction for the guardsmen will be in nomenclature of rifle, pistol and machine gun. The rudiments of drill will also be given, prior to the arrival of uniforms. It is possible that some indoor target work can be indulged in, or that the two old ranges in the vicinity of South Bend can be utilized for regular fire.

Fifty Springfield rifles, two target rifles, gun carriages, ammunition carts, machine guns, pistols and 50,000 rounds of ammunition will comprise the first shipment from the Indiana base. Uniforms and equipment practically complete will be here in 30 days, making it possible for a review, Nov. 11, in the armistice day celebration.

RANK ROOSEVELT HIGH IN HISTORY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Theodore Roosevelt is now accepted by most Americans as the "third in America's great triumvirate, along with Washington and Lincoln." President Harding said today in a letter giving his endorsement to a national movement for the collection of Roosevelt's papers and letters and campaign mementoes.

The letter was addressed to Herman Hagedorn of the Roosevelt Memorial association.

YOUR HEALTH

When the baby has safely passed his first birthday, the mother sighs a breath of relief. She assures you she doesn't want him to grow up, but after all she has come to appreciate how many dangers and worries there are in the first year of baby's life.

Up to the end of the first 12 months, if the baby has not been breast fed, he has been given prepared milk. The dissimilarity of cow's milk from human milk, has necessitated certain modifications. Lime water, sugar of milk and barley water have been added in certain proportions. When the baby reaches his first birthday, if he is strong and healthy, he may be given the plain and unmodified milk of the cow.

Up to this time the child has had very little solid food. After this, he will be given more and more solids. Let it be borne in mind that no economy should be practiced in feeding a baby. The food must be of the highest quality. It must be thoroughly and properly cooked. The price of good health is faithful observance of these rules, and of clock-like regularity in feeding. Stomach disorders and bowel troubles are sure to follow the use of carelessly prepared food and irregularity in giving it.

Suppose we outline the diet of a day for a child who is 12 to 18 months old:

We will begin at 7 o'clock in the morning with a fine-grained cereal, strained oatmeal or strained rice. With this—part on the cereal, and part out of a glass—will be given eight to 16 ounces of milk. "Zwieback" or stale bread with butter may be added.

It is important to see that the child has the necessary vitamins. To make sure of them, orange juice should be administered. This may be given at 9 o'clock. The juice of half an orange will be sufficient.

At 11 o'clock the child gets his first "square meal" of the day. He has two or three teaspoonfuls of scraped beef, to which stale bread-crumbs have been added. Or, in place of this, a soft boiled egg with dry bread will give the necessary nourishment. A little spinach, mashed carrots or mashed peas may be added. Dry bread with butter, or zwieback, may be given. At the same meal about six ounces of milk should be consumed.

After this meal, till 2 o'clock, the child should be encouraged to sleep. Every baby needs lots of rest and sleep, and a large part of it should be taken in the open air.

At 2:30 o'clock baby should have a broth of mutton, beef or chicken. This is made by placing the well-washed meat in enough water to cover. It is permitted to simmer on the stove for three or four hours. Then it is allowed to cool and the grease is skimmed off. After this, warm it again and strain. This prepares your stock. When you are ready to serve, warm, season and add rice or well-cooked barley.

A cupful of broth is served, with dry bread or zwieback. Six ounces of milk is given. To this meal is added a dessert of custard, junket or the well-cooked pulp of prunes.

At 5:30 o'clock the child should be given a cereal and eight ounces of milk.

If he wakes up and calls for food at 10 o'clock he may be given a drink of warm milk.

After 15 months of age minced white meat or chicken, a little baked potato, rice pudding, cornstarch pudding and whole wheat or graham bread may be added to vary the diet. These may be distributed through the various meals.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have a four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen, and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise for my health."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R.D. 1, Box 37, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of household duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

A standard treatment with thousands who know how quickly it heals sick skins. Ask anyone who has tried it.

RESINOL

Soothing and Healing

For washing baby's dainty little garments there are many reasons why you should choose a powdered soap, instead of bar soap. You should not rub baby's clothes as you must rub them when you use bar soap.

With Grandma's Powdered Soap you just squeeze out the pretty little things he wears.

Soak baby's clothes with Grandma. You do not need to rub them nor boil them. Grandma is a powdered soap which you use without wasting. You haven't the work of chipping and slicing bar soap.

You get a big, generous sized package for 5c.

The most economical soap you can use.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good drug-gist and use it like cold cream.—A-101.

Simplicity; Quality; Character; Beauty; Long Service

THERE now: We almost described this exquisite Queen Anne Dining Suite before we even started to write about it. If it had not made the heading so long we would have also said, "Inexpensiveness."

Not because this is South Bend, where good taste in home furnishings is a heritage among our people, but because we know that this beautiful Antique Mahogany creation will extend its own appeal, do we offer it to you.

Made in Grand Rapids? Yes, that is where it came from; our buyers picked it from hundreds of others to fill a certain place for select discriminating trade—and it fills it. Buy the suite complete; ten pieces; or buy only the pieces you can use; that is your privilege.

Forty-seven other suites in dining furniture, and double that number in bed room suites, to say nothing of the hundreds of unusual pieces for living rooms and elsewhere. This will give you an idea of what you may find here. Won't you come, please, and see them?
